Through both classroom and hands-on training evolutions, this course will cover the management and operational response of tender apparatus in fire suppression, short and long-term water supply emergencies, and during other events in which a community's water supply may be compromised. Emphasis will be placed on recognizing the operational procedures and crucial skills necessary to build and sustain an effective water supply and the importance of pre-planning and developing a Tender Response Plan that fits the needs of your local community. Regardless of the urban, suburban, or rural environment you respond to, this is a program that should not be missed.

0.5 Instructor CEU's will be awarded for attendance. Students should be authorized to attend this training program by their Chief of Department and/or training officer.
